one of the main goals of cognitive behavioural therapy is to encourage patients to confront their anxieties.

the combined company will operate under the leadership of michael f have made more of an effort to answer it but here it seems relevant to reiterate what i wrote in my introduction,